

Cases of Distinction

New South Wales and Commonwealth Administrative Law Decisions, 2007–10

In Sydney, Cases of Distinction will focus on New South Wales and Commonwealth cases that are current and important and which illustrate major principles of administrative law.

This seminar will suit those who work in or with government. Each seminar will help you to:

- stay abreast of recent developments in administrative law cases
- be literate and informed regarding new cases
- revise and refresh your knowledge of the underlying concepts of administrative law
- be inspired and entertained by the latest judgments.

Cases discussed or highlighted in each seminar will be selected for their currency, intrinsic interest and relevance to administrative law principles.

The seminar will include provision of case notes on all cases for the participants.

This seminar will cover subjects including:

- the nature of merits review
- cancellation decisions
- relevant considerations
- undisclosed issues in the natural justice context.

Current and topical administrative law cases are vital to the understanding and appreciation of this important area of law. We look forward to your company on the day.

Feedback from our previous Cases of Distinction Seminars includes:

'Very interesting seminar. Tim has a way of making a dry argument memorable and interesting! His passion for his subject is clearly evident!'

'Excellent analysis of cases. Engaging speaking style.'

'Succinct and upbeat presentation.'

'Very good wide-ranging summary of the cases by an engaging speaker.'

'Well structured and the learning between the cases was well linked. The program provided effective knowledge, but the style was formal and appropriate for me to integrate the information.'
